On July 26, 2021, the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) announced a new partnership initiative with PayPal to fight extremism and hate through means of disrupting the use of financial platforms by political extremists.

The ADL logo since 2018

The Anti-Defamation League is an international Jewish non-governmental organization based in the United States. It was founded in 1913 by Sigmund Livingston, due to rising anti-semitism in America. The most significant event that sparked the organization into action was the trial of Leo Frank, which was surrounded by a surge of anti-semitism against the defendant.

Leo Frank was a Jewish factory superintendent who was convicted in 1913 of the rape and murder of 13-year-old female employee Mary Phagan, in Atlanta, Georgia. He claimed innocence; the trial defense claimed Jim Conley, a Black janitor working at the factory, was the actual perpetrator. The trial largely relied Conley's testimony that he had been an accomplice in the event, but was not guilty of committing the crime against Mary Phagan.

Leo Frank

Jim Conley

In 1915, the Governor of Georgia commuted Frank's sentence from capital punishment to life imprisonment. Soon after, a group of armed men took unlawful vengeance kidnapping Frank from prison and subsequently lynching him. The new governor vowed to punish the lynchers, but nobody was charged.

In 1986, at the ADL's urging, Frank was posthumously pardoned by the state of Georgia, but not officially absolved of the crime. The action also received support and encouragement from the American Jewish Committee and the Atlanta Jewish Federation. According to the New York Times, they argued that they should not have to prove Frank's innocence; only that he was denied justice.

Jonathan Greenblatt

The current CEO and leader of the ADL is Jonathan Greenblatt, an entrepreneur, corporate executive, and former White House official under Obama. He assumed his current role in 2015, succeeding Abraham Foxman, who had directed the organization since 1987.

The PayPal logo since 2014

PayPal is a leading online payment platform with nearly 400 million consumers and merchants in more than 200 markets.

The current CEO of PayPal, Dan Schulman, is also Jewish. He has served as CEO since 2014.

“The only reason that Jews are in pornography is that we think that Christ sucks. Catholicism sucks. We don’t believe in authoritarianism. Pornography thus becomes a way of defiling Christian culture and, as it penetrates to the very heart of the American mainstream (and is no doubt consumed by those very same WASPs), its subversive character becomes more charged. Porn is no longer of the ‘what the Butler saw’ voyeuristic type; instead, it is driven to new extremes of portrayal that stretch the boundaries of the porn aesthetic. As new sexual positions are portrayed, the desire to shock (as well as entertain) seems clear.”

-Al Goldstein

(in an interview with Luke Ford, an adult film reviewer who converted to Orthodox Judaism)

“Those Jews who enter the pornography industry have done so as individuals pursuing the American dream.”

-Abraham Foxman, former National Director of the ADL (as documented in Dr. Nathan Abrams’ essay “Triple-exthnics”)

Largely based on the Jewish Quarterly article:
“Triple-exthnics: Nathan Abrams on Jews in the American porn industry”.

Jerry Robinson

Co-creator of Robin and Joker with Kane and Finger.

1922 - 2011

Trina Robbins

An early and influential participant in the underground comix movement. Highly involved in promoting female involvement in comics. Became the first woman to draw Wonder Woman comics in the 1980s.

William Gaines

Publisher and co-editor of MAD. Inherited EC Comics from his father, Max Gaines, and turned it into a pioneer of horror and shock satire. In the 60s and surrounding era, promoted socially conscious progressive themes such as racial equality, anti-war advocacy and environmentalism.

Gaines testified before Congress in 1954 on the potential negative influences his shocking and often "disturbing"/"gruesome" horror imagery and messaging could have on children. He denied these allegations.

1924 - 1993

Harvey Kurtzman

Writer and editor for MAD from 1952 to 1956. Illustrator of "Little Annie Fanny", a lewd comic strip for the Playboy magazine, from 1962 to 1988

1901 - 1971

Louis Silberkleit, John Goldwater, and Maurice Coyne

AKA John Goldwasser

AKA Morris Cohen

The three co-founders of MLJ Magazines, later known as Archie Comics.

"The Golem was very much the precursor of the super-hero in that in every society there's a need for mythological characters, wish fulfillment. And the wish fulfillment in the Jewish case of the hero would be someone who could protect us. This kind of storytelling seems to dominate in Jewish culture."

Meet some of the Jews who founded the most popular dating and hookup apps in America.

Sean Rad

One of the main and most important co-founders of Tinder, who created a prototype dating app called "MatchBox", which eventually became Tinder. Served as Tinder's CEO and Chairman at various times from the company's inception until 2016.

Justin Mateen

One of the other main and most important co-founders of Tinder, who had known Sean Rad since age 14. Used his personal office to host the team working on the early development of Tinder. Became its Chief Marketing Officer.

Whitney Wolfe Herd

Involved with the founding and management of Tinder. Largely responsible for its early adoption through recruiting new users on college campuses. Left in 2014 due to growing tensions and alleged sexual harassment, largely from Justin Mateen, who she had been previously romantically involved with.

Launched Bumble in late 2014 as a female-focused and "feminist" dating app. It went on to become the second most popular dating app in America, after Tinder. In early 2021, she was reported as the world's youngest self-made female billionaire.

According to The Forward, Wolfe Herd's father is Jewish and mother is Catholic, and she attended a Jewish preschool and a Catholic high school.

Joel Simkhai

An Israeli-American tech entrepreneur who is the founder and former CEO of Grindr, a social networking and dating app for LGBT people. It has become the largest and most popular gay mobile app in the world.

Simkhai is homosexual, and has two brothers, who are also both gay.

Some info sourced from "Bumble Vs. Tinder: What's Jewish About The Epic Dating Site War?" by The Jewish Daily Forward.

The Frankfurt School, originally known as The Institute for Social Research, was a school of social theory founded in the Weimar Republic (Germany 1918 - 1933).

It comprised intellectuals, academics, and political dissidents who sought to challenge existing power structures and economic systems with a set of ideologies and critiques collectively known as "critical theory".

An example of a modern application is "Critical Race Theory", which is built upon the ideas of challenging existing power structures through certain ideological analysis.

Meet a few of the original Jewish intellectuals who comprised the Frankfurt School.

Max Horkheimer

Philosopher and sociologist who addressed authoritarianism, mass culture, and more; his ideas became the foundation of critical theory.

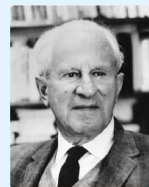

As director of the Institute, he changed it from an orthodox Marxist school to a heterodox school for critical social research.

Theodor W. Adorno***

Leading member of the Institute.

His writings, such as "Dialectic Enlightenment", "Minima Moralia", and "Negative Dialectics", strongly influenced the European New Left.

Herbert Marcuse

Often considered "the Father of the New Left". Criticized what he saw as new forms of "social control", including Soviet communism. Worked for the OSS (precursor to CIA) from 1943 - 1950. His book "Eros and Civilization" helped shape the LGBT liberation movement and subcultures of the 1960s.

Friedrich Pollock***

One of the main founders of the Institute. Used his contacts in the International Labour Organization to establish a Geneva branch of the Institute prior to Nazi seizure of power. Lifelong friends with Max Horkheimer since meeting him in the early 1910s.

Erich Fromm

Social psychologist, psychoanalyst, philosopher, and sociologist. Author of "Escape from Freedom", which is viewed as one of the founding works of political psychology.

Otto Kirchheimer

Jurist whose work primarily concerned the state and its constitution.

Worked as a research analyst for the OSS, the precursor to the CIA, from WWII to 1952.

Leo Löwenthal

Became the leading expert on the sociology of literature and mass culture at the Institute, as well as the managing editor of the journal it launched in 1932.

Worked with the Office of War Information in Washington after moving to America.

Franz Neumann

Western Marxist theorist and labor lawyer. Became a political scientist in exile. Best known for his theoretical analyses of Nazism.

Worked for the OSS, the precursor to the CIA, from 1943 - 1945. Spied for the Soviet Union during WWII under the code-name "Ruff".

Henryk Grossman

Economist, historian, and Marxist revolutionary.

Well known for his book, "The Law of Accumulation and Breakdown of the Capitalist System", a study in Marxian crisis theory.

Associates of the Frankfurt School:

Siegfried Kracauer

Journalist, sociologist, cultural critic, and film theorist.

Notably argued that realism is the most important function of cinema.

Walter Benjamin

Philosopher and cultural critic.

Wrote several essays about aesthetic theory, literary criticism, and historical materialism. His works gained most of their popular renown after his death.

Ernst Bloch

Marxist philosopher.

Best known for his three volume work, "The Principle of Hope", which explores utopianism and the idea of absolute perfection.

Soon after Hitler's rise to power in 1933, the Frankfurt School moved first to Geneva, and then New York City in 1935. Eventually, it returned to West Germany in 1953, but several of the Jewish intellectuals remained in America.

*Theodor W. Adorno's father was Jewish; his mother was not. Friedrich Pollock was raised by his father, who was an ethnically Jewish winemaker; however, his father rejected the faith of Judaism, and raised his son accordingly.

Meet the Jews who created the wildly popular TV series “Game of Thrones”.

“Game of Thrones” is a fantasy TV series created for HBO. It is based on a series of fantasy novels by George R.R. Martin, who, according to The Times Of Israel, actually discovered through a DNA test he is 25% Ashkenazi Jewish. (He does not consider himself Jewish, nor has he ever considered himself Jewish.) Martin plans to conclude the novel series in the future; however, the TV series has already concluded with its own original ending.

The show continues to retain a large audience and dedicated fan base to this day. It has received countless awards, nominations, and other accolades, and is widely considered to be one of the best TV shows ever made.

The two co-creators of the “Game of Thrones” TV series are both Jewish.

David Benioff

1970 -

D. B. Weiss

1971 -

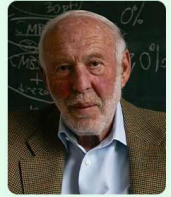

Benioff and Weiss first met each other in college, and the Jewish duo has worked on numerous projects ever since.

Based on the articles “The Jewish legacy behind ‘Game of Thrones’” and “Game of Thrones creator George R.R. Martin discovers he’s a quarter Jewish” by The Times Of Israel.

Larry Silverstein is a businessman who is the founder and owner of Silverstein Properties. On April 26, 2001, he finalized a negotiated bid to lease-purchase the World Trade Center. The bid was accepted on July 24, 2001; just 49 days before the September 11 attacks.

Larry Silverstein in 2018

Silverstein has said in interviews that he usually spent his mornings in breakfast meetings at the top of the North Tower. However, on the morning of September 11th, his wife insisted he attend a medical appointment, which resulted in him avoiding almost certain death. His son, Roger, was in the parking garage of the original WTC 7 when the first plane hit, and his daughter Lisa was turned away by police farther uptown; both were working for their father, and were fortunate enough to have their lives spared as well.

The insurance policies for the destroyed buildings had a collective face amount of $3.55 billion. However, Silverstein sought to collect double the face amount, ~$7.1 billion, on the basis that the two separate airplane strikes into two separate buildings constituted two separate attacks within the meaning of the insurance policies. The insurance companies opposed this view, and the matter went to court, where it was concluded that the total potential payout was capped at $4.577 billion. Silverstein continued to seek more damage compensation in the years following the verdict.

The Tribute in Light, a memorial for the attacks on 9/11.

Silverstein was very close friends with then-Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, who reportedly called Silverstein every Sunday afternoon New York time (Haaretz). Their friendship began when Netanyahu served as the Israeli ambassador to the UN. A few years after the attacks occurred, Netanyahu claimed that the 9/11 attacks had been good for Israel.

Former Israeli PM
Benjamin Netanyahu

"We are benefiting from one thing, and that is the attack on the Twin Towers and Pentagon, and the American struggle in Iraq," Israeli newspaper Ma'ariv quoted the former prime minister as saying. He reportedly added that these events "swung American public opinion in our favor."

Meet a few of the Jews whose vital work has shaped our societies' acceptance and understanding of LGBT+ sexuality.

1865 – 1935

Magnus Hirschfeld

German sexologist known as one of first pioneers of transgender rights. Coined the term “transvestite”. Founded the Institute for Sexual Research to explore the science of sexuality, building on his previous campaigns for science-backed LGBT tolerance.

1929 – 2017

George Weinberg

American psychologist. Coined the term “homophobia” in the 1960s. Leader in the successful struggle to have homosexuality removed as a diagnostic category from the DSM, the professional therapeutic handbook.

1925 – 2011

Frank Kameny

LGBT rights activist often referred to as “one of the most significant figures” in the American gay rights movement. Filed the first known civil rights claim based on sexual orientation pursued in a US court, and became the first openly gay candidate for US Congress.

1946 – 2005

Brenda Howard

American LGBT rights activist and polymath. Known as the “Mother of Pride” for her leading role in coordinating the first LGBT pride march in 1970.

Howard said of herself: “The next time someone asks you why LGBT Pride marches exist, or why Gay Pride Month is in June, tell them ‘A bisexual woman named Brenda Howard thought it should be.’”

1949 – 2011

Leslie Feinberg

American butch lesbian, transgender rights activist and author. Her writing laid the groundwork for much of the terminology and awareness around gender studies, and was instrumental in bringing these issues to a mainstream audience.

Joel Simkhai

Israeli-American tech entrepreneur. Founder and former CEO of Grindr, a social networking and dating app for LGBT people. It has become the largest and most popular gay mobile app in the world.

Simkhai is homosexual, and has two brothers, who are also both gay.

2000 –

Jazz Jennings

American YouTube personality, spokesmodel, and LGBT rights activist. Notable for being one of the youngest publicly documented people to identify as transgender.

1987 –

Raffi Freedman-Gurspan

American transgender rights activist. The first openly transgender White House staffer. Named senior White House LGBT liaison in 2016.

1930 – 1978

Harvey Milk

The first openly gay elected official in the history of California.

Despite being the most pro-LGBT politician in America at the time, he was not open about his sexuality until after his experiences in the 1960s counterculture movements.

1949 –

Gayle Rubin

American cultural anthropologist, best known as an activist and theorist of sex and gender politics.

Her 1984 essay “Thinking Sex” is widely regarded as a founding text of gay and lesbian studies, sexuality studies, and queer theory.

Countless other Jews have made incredible contributions to LGBTQIA+ activism, culture, and more.

Modern American libertarianism was largely pioneered by Jews.

1881 - 1973

Ludwig Von Mises

Often considered a major figure in the revival of classical liberalism, and a highly influential figure in 20th century libertarianism.

1926 - 1995

Murray Rothbard

Founder and leading theoretician of anarcho-capitalism.

Central figure in the 20th century American libertarian movement.

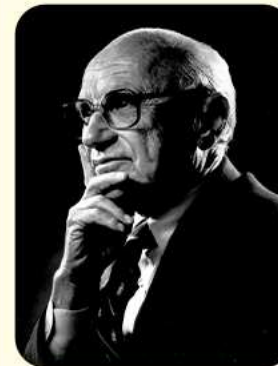

1905 - 1982

Ayn Rand

Developer of the philosophical system "Objectivism". Wrote several books espousing her ideas. Promoted laissez-faire capitalism, individual and property rights, and related sentiments.

Although opposed to the overall concept of libertarianism herself, her character and ideas are generally associated with the modern libertarian movement.

1912 - 2006

Milton Friedman

Advisor to Ronald Reagan and Margaret Thatcher who extolled the values of a free market system with minimal government intervention in private matters.

Advocated a volunteer military, freely floating exchange rates, abolition of medical licenses, a negative income tax, and more. Won the Nobel Prize for Economics in 1976.

Walter Block

An Austrian School economist and prominent anarcho-capitalist theorist. Best known for his 1976 book, "Defending the Undefendable", in which he takes contrarian positions on illegal acts which he believes are victimless, or would actually benefit the public.

Nuclear weaponry was pioneered by Jews, from design, to advocacy for proliferation, largely for the purpose of defeating anti-Semitic and fascist-aligned regimes.

J. Robert Oppenheimer

The wartime head of the Los Alamos Laboratory, where he is credited as “The Father of the Atomic Bomb” for his role in the Manhattan Project, the World War II undertaking that developed the first nuclear weapons.

1908 - 2003

Edward Teller

Known as “The Father of the Hydrogen Bomb” for the Teller-Ulam design (in collaboration with Stanislaw Ulam, who was also Jewish.)

A member of the Manhattan Project, who eventually became one of the strongest and best known advocates for investigating non-military uses of nuclear explosives.

1902 - 1995

Eugene Wigner

Played a major role in agitating for the Manhattan Project from 1939 to 1940. From 1942 to 1945, he worked on the Manhattan Project at the University of Chicago.

1907 - 1995

Rudolf Peirels

A British physicist who played a major role in both Tube Alloys, Britain's nuclear weapon program, and the subsequent Manhattan Project.

1896 - 1974

Lewis Strauss

A major figure in the development of nuclear weapons and US nuclear policy. A strong proponent of developing the hydrogen bomb, he emphasized the need to stay ahead of USSR atomic development.

Albert Einstein

Widely acknowledged as one of the greatest physicists of all time. Along with Szilard, Wigner, Teller, and others, worked to alert the American government of the necessity of developing atomic weapons in order for a potential future conflict with Germany. They believed that Germany could win the race to the atomic bomb, and that “Hitler would be more than willing to resort to such a weapon.”

Lise Meitner

Praised by Albert Einstein as the “German Marie Curie”. Greatly contributed to the discovery of the element protactinium and nuclear fission. The principle of fission led to the development of the atomic bomb in World War II.

Otto Robert Frisch

The nephew of Lise Meitner, with whom he advanced the first theoretical explanation of nuclear fission (a term he coined). Later collaborated with Rudolf Peierls to design the mechanism for the detonation of an atomic bomb in 1940. He was also involved with the Manhattan Project and conducted research in the Los Alamos Laboratory.

Leo Szilard

Conceived the nuclear chain reaction in 1933, patented the idea of a nuclear fission reactor in 1934, and in late 1939 wrote the letter for Albert Einstein's signature that resulted in the Manhattan Project.

1901 - 1954

Enrico Fermi

An Italian physicist and the creator of the world's first nuclear reactor. He has been called the “architect of the nuclear age” and the “architect of the atomic bomb” due to his incredible contributions to nuclear science.

While Fermi himself was not Jewish, he fled Italy in 1938 to protect his Jewish wife, Laura Capon.

Meet the Sackler family.

The Sackler Family is an American family of medical entrepreneurs, best known for their role in widespread distribution of opioids in the United States.

They founded and own the pharmaceutical companies Purdue Pharma and Mundipharma.

Oxycontin, the most prominent drug produced by Purdue

Purdue Pharma, and by extension some members of the family, have faced criticism and lawsuits regarding overprescription of addictive pharmaceutical drugs, including OxyContin, and Purdue's role in the Opioid epidemic in America. In 2007, Purdue paid out on one of the largest fines ever levied against a pharmaceutical firm for mislabeling of its product OxyContin, and three executives were found guilty of criminal charges. Purdue continued to market and sell opioids as late as 2019.

The Sackler family made about $3 billion in profit every year through their pharmaceutical companies.

However, in 2019, Purdue filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy; and in 2020, reached a settlement potentially worth $8.3 billion, admitting that it "knowingly and intentionally conspired and agreed with others to aid and abet" doctors dispensing medication "without a legitimate medical purpose."

Members of the Sackler family will pay an additional $225 million, and the company will close. The US House of Representatives introduced a bill in March 2021 to stop the bankruptcy judge from granting members of the Sackler family legal immunity during the bankruptcy proceedings, but as of September 2021, it has been ruled that they will be given legal immunity.

Meet some of the Jews behind the incredibly popular stop-motion holiday series "Santa Inc."

Santa Inc. is a holiday comedy streamed exclusively on HBO.

It follows Candy Smalls, a female elf who is canonically Jewish. She works to become not only the North Pole's first female Santa Claus, but also the first Jewish Santa, after noting that all the previous Santas have been white males.

The current Santa Claus claims to be "the most progressive Santa in history". He was training a black man, "Brent Robbins", to be his successor. However, after Robbins defects to work for Amazon, Santa needs to find a new successor. When approached by Candy Smalls about being the first female successor, Santa claims he is very open to the idea, and that Robbins was already supposed to be a crucial step for progress.

However, Santa and his colleagues exhibit tendencies that can be seen to be privileged and misogynistic in many ways. Candy Smalls' coming to terms with these structures and the problems they exhibit is a core premise of the show.

Both of the most prominent characters, Candy Smalls and Santa Claus, are played by Jews.

1982 -

Seth Rogen
Starring as Santa Claus.

1970 -

Sarah Silverman
Starring as "Candy
Smalls", the show's protagonist.

1971 -

Leslie Grossman
Starring as "Cookie", a gingerbread woman who is best friends with protagonist Candy
Smalls.

Many of the executive producers, including Rogen and Silverman, are also Jewish.

1982 -

Evan Goldberg

Started his career with Seth Goldberg as staff on Sacha Baron Cohen's 'Da Ali G Show'. They have since collaborated on multiple projects including 'Pineapple Express', 'Knocked Up' and 'Funny People' via their production company 'Point Grey Pictures'.

1974 -

Seth Green

A wildly famous actor, producer and director, Green is best known for his roles in 'Buffy the Vampire Slayer', 'Family Guy' and also as the co-creator of the show 'Robot Chicken', which he created with Matthew Senreich.

1974 -

Matthew Senreich

Senreich began collaborating with Seth Green when he was working at Wizard Magazine. When asked if he had ever received a Christmas present, he responded; "Well I'm a Jew, so I haven't ever received a Christmas present."

Amy Zvi

Sarah Silverman's long-time manager and the Executive Producer of Silverman's show 'I Love You America'. Has also frequently worked as a producer for the Jewish comedian Jeff Ross.

Meet Sigmund Freud and Edward Bernays.

Sigmund Freud was an Austrian neurologist who founded “psychoanalysis”, a set of ideas on how to engage and understand the unconscious part of people’s minds. His research and thinking was largely pioneered through the idea that people had inner, unconscious desires that could be used to control them.

Edward Bernays was a nephew of Freud, and an American pioneer in the field of public relations and propaganda; referred to in his obituary as “the father of public relations”.

An example of propaganda used to promote the idea of America spreading democracy.

During WWI, Bernays was hired to work for the Committee on public Information. His work was focused on building support for the war, both domestically and abroad. He described it as “psychological warfare”.

President Woodrow Wilson announced that the US would fight not to restore old empires, but to bring democracy to all of Europe. Bernays proved extremely skillful in promoting this idea at home, and abroad.

President Woodrow Wilson

At the end of the war, Bernays accompanied Wilson to the Paris Peace Conference. Wilson’s incredible positive reception in Paris astounded Bernays. The way in which their propaganda had effectively made Wilson out to be a hero and a liberator fascinated Bernays, and he wondered if he could use propaganda tactics employed for war during peacetime.

Upon returning to America, Bernays set about this idea. The word “propaganda” had begun to carry some baggage, so he had some associates assist him in coming up with a new term - “public relations”. He set up a “public relations counsel” in an office in New York City. Here, he turned to the writings of his uncle Freud, hoping to employ his ideas on activating subconscious human desires to achieve certain outcomes.

One of his most dramatic experiments in this was to persuade women to smoke. Until then, smoking was seen as taboo for women. Bernays was approached by George Hill, the head of the American Tobacco Company. He had previously been working for Hill’s rival, Liggett and Myers, and running ad campaigns mocking Lucky Strike cigarettes, which were produced by the American Tobacco Company.

When he began working for the American Tobacco Company, Bernays was tasked with increasing sales of Lucky Strike cigarettes among women. His first strategy was to encourage women to smoke cigarettes instead of eating, and claim cigarettes brought about thinness. He began by promoting the ideal of thinness itself, using photographers, artists, and media outlets to promote a female body image of an incredible thin ideal woman. Medical authorities were then found to promote the choice of cigarettes over sweets, and home-makers were told that keeping cigarettes were a social necessity.

One of the Lucky Strike advertisements promoting the idea that cigarettes could make a woman thin.

Women using cigarettes in Bernays’ organized stunt.

This campaign succeeded, but a taboo remained on women smoking in public. Bernays consulted fellow Jewish psychoanalyst Abraham Brill, a student of Freud who translated his works into English and was the first practicing psychoanalyst in America. They decided to go with the idea of cigarettes representing male power and authority, and that smoking them would give women more authority as well. Bernays pulled a stunt where he paid women to smoke cigarettes at a parade, after telling local media some female suffragettes were planning to smoke as an act of protest. The staged story was a massive success in the media, and ripples of women began smoking prominently across the country.

Bernays worked on countless other endeavors throughout his long and storied career. He even advised political clients, such as Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, and more.

During World War II, he advised the US Information Agency, as well as the Army and the Navy.

Freud and Bernays’ incredible contributions and work in the field of neurology, psychoanalysis, propaganda, and public relations are far more vast than the sample on this table.

Meet the Jews who spearheaded the 2021 Sines v. Kessler trial against far-right defendants.

“Sines v. Kessler” was a lawsuit that took place in court during late 2021. It targeted the organizers of the 2017 Unite the Right rally in Charlottesville, which ended with anti-fascist Heather Heyer dying after being hit by a car driven by James Fields, who was named as a defendant in this case.

The objective of the plaintiffs was to cripple the far-right movement by extracting as much money from the defendants as possible, and ensure they cannot hide behind the pretense of “exercising their free speech”. Robert Kaplan explained in an interview with the Jewish Telegraphic Agency:

“One of the reasons why I did this case is to deter other white supremacists, neo-Nazis and others from trying to organize anything like Charlottesville ever again. And making them understand that if they do, these will be the consequences. Some of the defendants in this case have already complained about how hard this trial is making it for them to organize and to raise money, people like Richard Spencer. And to our knowledge, none of them participated in person in the events at the Capitol on January 6. In other words, they at least have been deterred.”

The case ended with the plaintiffs prevailing, being awarded more than $25 million in damages by the jury. It is foreseeable that the case could go on appeal.

Roberta Kaplan

One of the lead lawyers for the plaintiffs. Previously argued before the Supreme Court in United States v. Windsor to successfully overturn Section 3 of the Defense of Marriage Act, on behalf of homosexual Jewish plaintiff Edith Windsor. Kaplan herself is also in a homosexual marriage.

Karen Dunn

Another lead lawyer for the plaintiffs alongside Kaplan.

Alan Levine

A Jewish seminary chair who worked as another very important plaintiff lawyer.

Amy Spitalnick

The leader of civil rights group Integrity First for America. Financially supported the work of the plaintiffs during the lawsuit.

Deborah Lipstadt

A renowned Holocaust historian who is the Biden administration's nominee to be global envoy to combat anti-Semitism. Took a witness stand.

Michael Bloch

Another crucial lawyer for the plaintiffs.

In March 2011, a series of postage stamps called “Legendary Heroes of Africa” were released as a joint issue by the countries of Gambia, Liberia, and Sierra Leone, to celebrate Jewish heroes of the South African Liberation struggle.

It portrayed 12 Jews, all of whom are displayed on this Infotable.

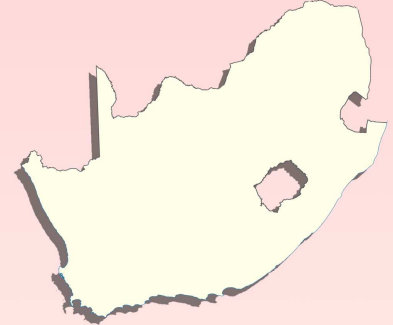

The joint issue explicitly recognized Jews as a people for their contribution, noting:

“In the anti Apartheid South African Liberation Struggle it was estimated that Jews were represented by 2,500% in proportion to the white population. This stamp issue acknowledged the extraordinary sacrifices made by Jews to the liberation of their African brethren, and these stamps recognized some of the most significant contributors to global humanity in the 20th Century.”

Susan Rosenberg is an American activist and writer. From the late 1970s to the mid-1980s, she was active in the left-wing revolutionary group "May 19th Communist Organization" (M19C0).

In 1983, M19C0 bombed the U.S. Capitol. Six people, one of whom was Rosenberg, were arrested and charged in May 1988. However, Rosenberg had already been arrested in 1984 while in possession of a large cache of explosives and firearms weighing over 750 lbs, and automatic weapons.

The charges against her and two other co-defendants were dropped while she was serving her existing 58-year sentence.

While in prison, Rosenberg devoted herself to writing and activism around AIDS, and obtained a master's degree from Antioch University.

Rosenberg was pardoned by Bill Clinton on January 20, 2001 (his last day in office) after serving 16 out of the 58 years she had been sentenced.

As of 2020, Rosenberg serves as vice chair of the board of directors of Thousand Currents, a non-profit that uses its tax-exempt status to process the millions of dollars received by the Black Lives Matter Global Network Foundation.

Meet a few of the Jews who played massive roles in the proliferation and legalization of marijuana.

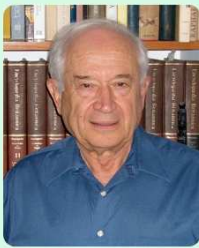

1928 - 2020

Lester Grinspoon

Author of "Marihuana Reconsidered" and hundreds of other scholarly works advocating for the utility of medicinal cannabis.

Played a pivotal role in advancing both marijuana policy and NORML (National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws), a prominent DC nonprofit that advocates for cannabis law reform.

1930 -

Raphael Mechoulam

An Israeli scientist who was the first to isolate and achieve total synthesis of THC, the active element in cannabis that generates a high.

1930 -

George Soros

Billionaire investor and philanthropist who has donated millions of dollars to drug reforms through his Open Society Foundation. The largest recipient of these donations is Ethan Nadelmann's Drug Policy Alliance.

1908 - 1997

Emmanuel Bronner

Businessman who founded Dr. Bronner's Magic Soaps. Used product labels to promote his moral and religious ideas, and belief in the goodness and unity of humanity.

Promoted the decriminalization of cannabis and donated large sums of money to relevant causes. His soap brand continues to support and advocate for these causes today.

1933 - 2013

Peter Benjamin Lewis

Businessman who was the chairman of Progressive Insurance Company.

Primary funder of The Marijuana Policy Project, the largest organization working solely on marijuana policy reform in America, and its various ballot initiatives.

1948 -

George Zimmer

Businessman who founded Men's Warehouse and worked with other endeavors in the clothing industry.

His experience caring for his mother who died of cancer led him to support research and legalization of drugs such as cannabis for medical use.

1957 -

Ethan Nadelmann

Founder of the Drug Policy Alliance, a non-profit organization working to end the war on drugs. The DPA's advocacy and political arm is referred to as "Drug Policy Action".

Described by Rolling Stone as "The driving force for the legalization of marijuana in America".

1973 -

Adam Eiding

Businessman and cannabis rights activist known for his role in spearheading Initiative 71, which legalized cannabis in Washington, D.C. in 2015.

Three bills considered to be some of the most groundbreaking pieces of marijuana legislation were all primarily financed by Jews.

California Prop 215 (1996)

The first bill to legalize medical marijuana.

Of the $2 million in funding it received, $1.5 million alone came from 6 megadonors. Out of that, $1.175 million came from Jewish megadonors. Soros ($550K), Lewis ($500K), and the Zimmers ($125K)

Washington State Initiative 502 (2012)

Legalized recreational cannabis in the state of Washington.

Of the $6.17 million in funding it received, at least $3.81 million came from Jewish megadonor sources. Lewis ($2.04M), Drug Policy Action ($1.69M), and Bronner Soaps ($75K)

Colorado Amendment 64 (2012)

Legalized recreational cannabis in the state of Colorado.

Of the $2 million in funding it received, around $1.5 million came from Jewish sources. Marijuana Policy Project ($1.23M), Drug Policy Alliance/Action ($185,000), Bronner Soaps ($50,000), Lewis ($33,700)

Donut charts display donation proportions out of one hundred percent. Blue portion represents known Jewish donations, from individuals or groups administered/funded primarily by Jews. Gray represents all other donations.

"There are indeed many Jewish cannabis activists... Many of these activists propose that drug policy reform really does align with Jewish values like tikkun olam and standing up against oppression."

- Madison Margolin, in a 2017 article for The Times of Israel

"My views on marijuana and all public issues have been strongly influenced by my upbringing, which included Jewish values focusing on justice and personal responsibility for promoting a better world for all."

- Richard Gottfried, Jewish Manhattan Assembly member

"I think it's interesting that many of us who work in drug policy reform are Jewish, and I have definitely noticed in my unscientific sampling that Jews tend to enjoy their ganja [marijuana]. Also, personally, both cannabis and Judaism have empowered me to question things and see the greater context, so I can see why neo-Nazis would feel especially threatened by the combination."

- Natalie Ginsberg, policy and advocacy manager at the Multidisciplinary Association for Psychedelic Studies (MAPS)

"You know it's a funny thing, every one of the bastards that are out for legalizing marijuana is Jewish. What the Christ is the matter with the Jews, Bob, what is the matter with them?"

- President Richard Nixon, in an anti-semitic rant that was recorded and later released on tape

BlackRock to Push Companies on Racial Diversity in 2021

Many of his team were Jewish, leading some at the firm to dub Fink's desk "Little Israel". In the 1970s and 1980s, Italians and Jews were still sometimes held at arm's length at Waspier Wall Street firms like First Boston. He recalls his manager telling him to hire a "wop" — a racial slur referring to a person of Italian heritage — to work on the desk when everyone else was off for the Jewish holidays.

This turned out to be a working-class Wharton graduate from Monticello named Robert Kapito. But when Rosh Hashana arrived, it emerged that Kapito was as Jewish as the rest of the desk. Despite the awful, casual xenophobia of the era, Fink loved it at First Boston, which was at its core scrappy and meritocratic. The reality was that no one cared who you were, as long as you made money. And Fink made money.

BlackRock Inc., the world's largest asset manager, plans to next year push companies for greater ethnic and gender diversity for their boards and workforces, and says it will vote against directors who fail to act.

The money manager, which oversees more than $7.8 trillion of assets, is asking U.S. companies to disclose the racial, ethnic and gender makeup of their employees — data known as EEO-1 — as well as measures they're taking to advance diversity and inclusion, according to a stewardship report released Thursday.

"We are raising our expectations," New York-based BlackRock said in the report. "An inclusive, diverse and engaged workforce contributes to business continuity, innovation, and long-term value creation."

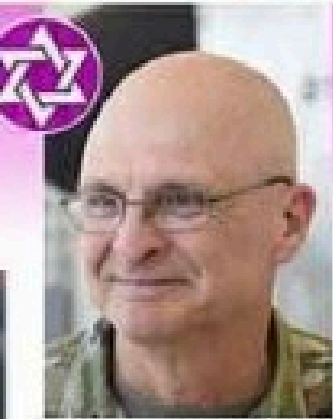

~Since 2008 BlackRock has grown 12.7% annually ~

If Jews represent just 2% of the U.S. population, would it be odd for a media organization (whose parent company has a Jewish Chairman & CEO) to have five Jewish Chairmen and five Jewish Presidents leading each of its five divisions (News, Television, Cable, Sports, and Film), as well as a National Political Director, Chief Legal Correspondent, Chief Foreign Correspondent, and a majority of Executive Producers and Hosts who are also Jewish?

It's almost as if...

If roughly 2% of Americans are Jews, is it odd that a newspaper's Chairman & Vice Chairman, Publisher & Deputy Publisher, Managing Editor & Deputy Managing Editor, President & CEO's spouse, Chief Operating Officer, and majority of its Directors and Exec. Committee are Jewish? What if its D.C., L.A., London, Paris, Rome, Berlin, Central/East Europe, South Asia, and Australia Bureau Chiefs, its Editor-in-Chief of its Editorial Page and Global, Magazine, and Business Editions, and its Chief National, International, Political, Domestic Affairs, Military, and White House Correspondents—all but one "Chief" Correspondent—are also Jewish?

*Although it's never publicly admitted, multiple sources allege Murdoch has Jewish ancestry on his maternal line. He's also a devoted Zionist who's been honored by the Simon Wiesenthal Center, the Anti-Defamation League and the American Jewish Committee. In the Algemeiner Journal's annual list of the top 10 non-Jews that are positively influencing the Jewish future, Murdoch has consistently ranked near the top.
